BRAND IDENTITY

Today, a strong brand image is one of the main ways in which a company can differentiate itself from the competition.

A strong brand is more than just a logotype:

it embodies a philosophy, an attitude, an idea. Every aspect of our brand, our graphics, colours, typefaces and tone-of-voice must therefore reflect the values of the brand.

The brand Nurturists strongly strives towards the development of emotional intelligence and life skills among the age group of 7-12 years. If we have to personify this concept it will be a human in the form of a parent , teacher, or caregiver helping kids understand their feelings and emotions. The brand is embedding mindfulness among children through activity kits inside subscription boxes.

THE POWER OF THE BRAND

THE POWER TO CREATE VALUE

Brand value represents 20% of a company's stock market capitalization. When a brand has a strong value, it captures three times the volumes of an average brand.

THE POWER OF DESIRABILITY

A strong brand creates an emotional attachment with its targets, surpassing a purely rational, objective or transactional choice

THE POWER TO STAND OUT

Every day, we come into contact with 3, 000 company names and brands. A strong brand gives the company a strong identity, a unique personality and the potential to stand out. That differentiation benefits the brand's propositions (products, services, initiatives, etc.). It makes it possible to gather/federate at a time in which, due to on time social networks where there is no more partition between corporate brand, employer brand, consumer brand, financial brand and brand partner.

THE POWER TO BE USEFUL AND PROVIDE MEANING

Brands now have the power to engage their target audiences, to invite them to adhere to values that go far beyond commercial values. Every organization that counts is now asking, through its brand, the WHAT/HOW/WHY questions that will make it comprehensible and promote its sense of purpose among its target audiences.

*"People don't buy what you do.
They buy why you do it."*

- Simon Sinek

OUR PILLARS

Emotional Quotient

The Brand Nurturists being one of the 1st in the country is focused on developing and enriching a child's Emotional Quotient. We would want to spread awareness and reach out to our audience with this untouched yet prima facie topic in cultivating a child's holistic development.

Community

It takes a village to bring up a child, and we will yearn hard to help the children of our nation to be aware of their inner emotions through the support of the community of emotionally viable and cautious tribe of parents and families.

Creativity

Children love art and inventiveness the same will be in resonance through our visual communication too. The emotional Quotient is a notion that will be converted into mindfulness in our creative artwork.

VOICE AND TONALITY

The brand has a product expanse for the age group of 4-12 years. But the transmission of communication is to the Millennial Parents. A deep sense of understanding, cautiousness and still interactive tone needs to be maintained while scripting for this segmented target audience.

Do's

- Involve a personal touch in your lingo.
- Add emotions and excitement to your text.
- Be sensitive to their state and feelings.
- Have it attested by child psychologist experts.
- Keep the language simple and not very heavy for the parents to avoid disconnect.
- Talk directly to your target audience.
- Use interactive and engaging language to encourage questions and queries in the comment sections.
- Make the posts fun, eye-opening and relatable.

Don'ts

- Refrain the use of psychological jargon to confuse the audience
- Don't bombard too much information, keep it short and crisp.

INTENTION OF USE

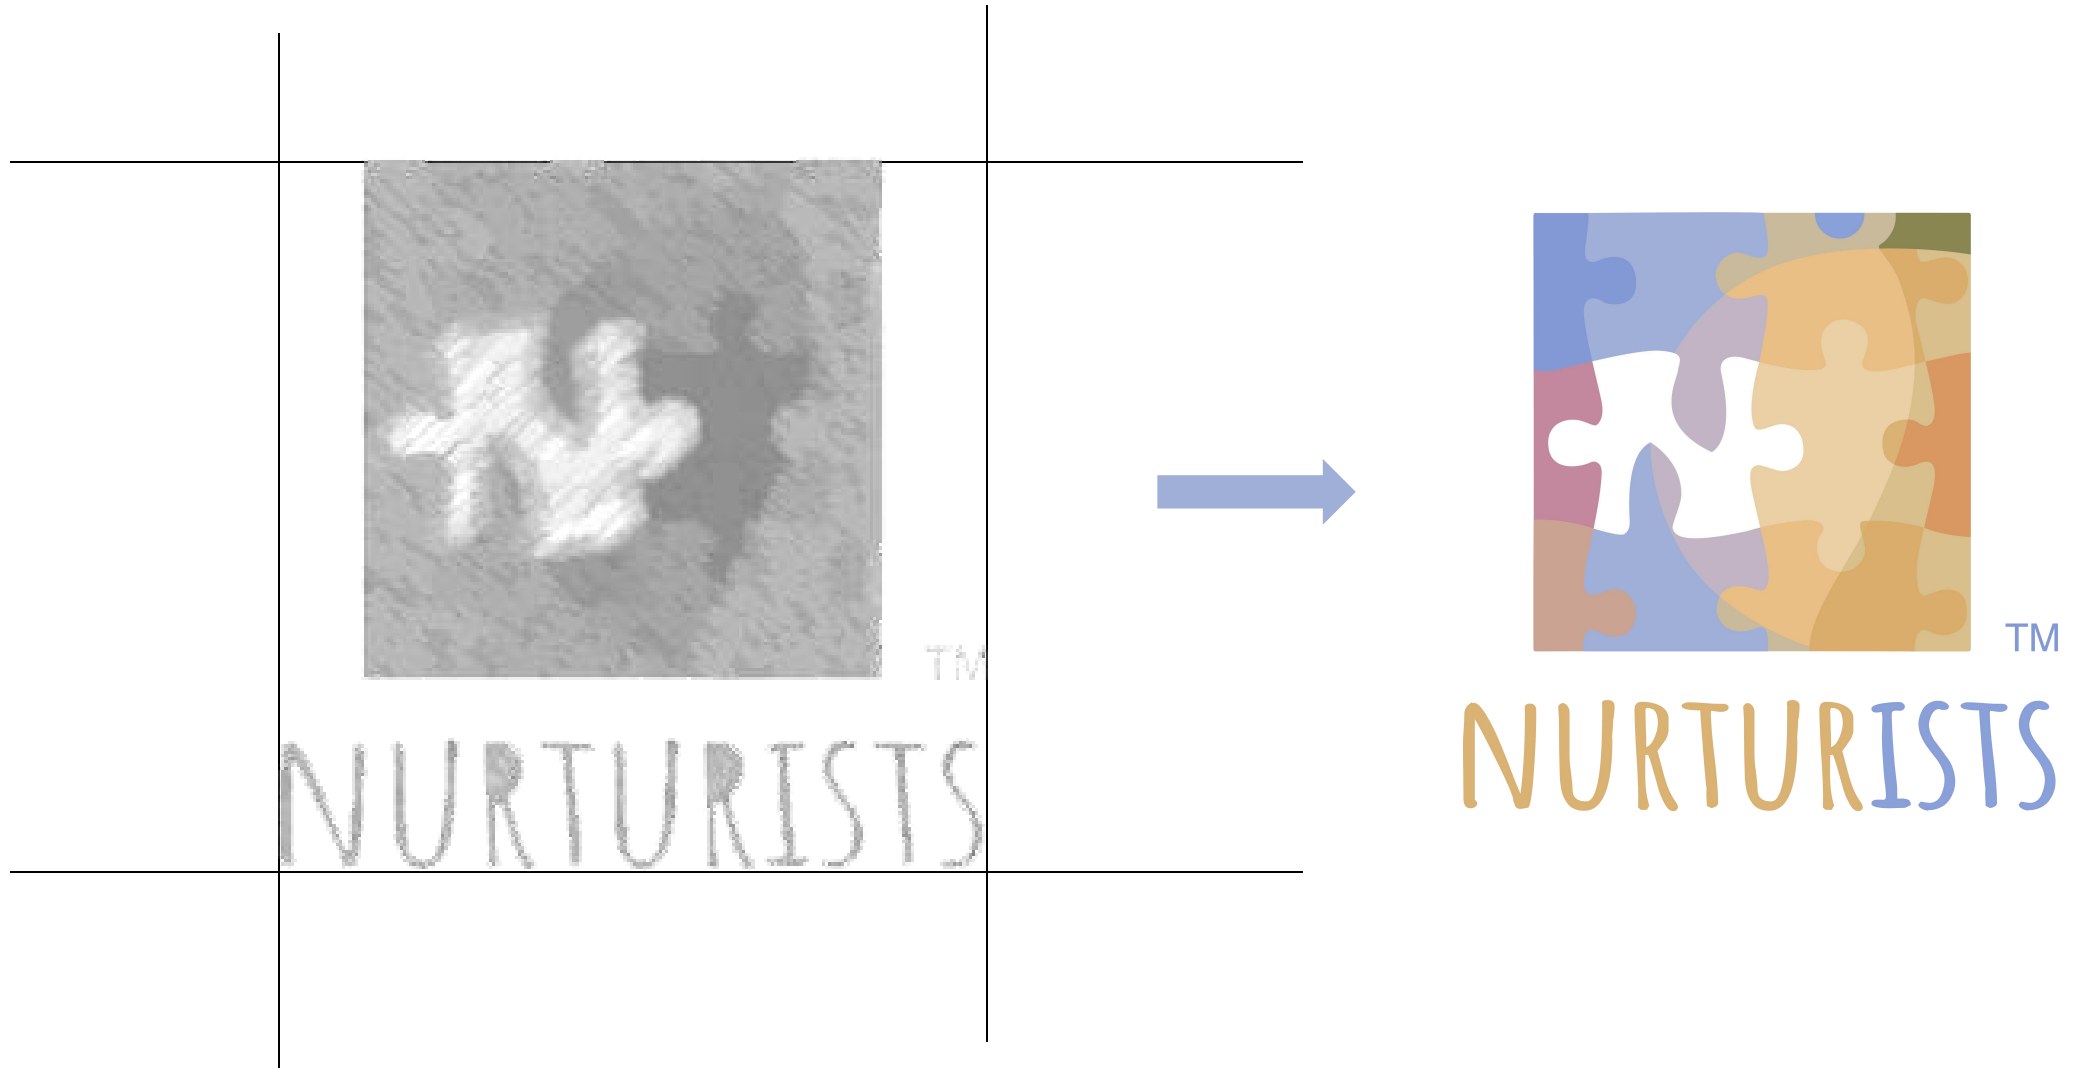

This document serves as the Graphic Style Guide for when presenting the name Nurturists externally to the marketplace.

The brand book is the Bible for the Creative Marketing and Designing team. It's a book of reference and citation. The guidelines are collated so that there is a defined scope of work they can follow without any ambiguity.
